Allies Draft Ultimatum To Soviet at The Hague

Demand Reds Reveal to What Extent They Will Restore Seized Property

THE HAGUE, July 11 (By The Asnociated Press; .- Developments of the next few days will determine whether the conference on Russian problems will collapse this week or continue for another month or two. Such is the impression to-night among all the delegates, including the Russians. The European delegations to-day make clear to what extent and under what practical conditions they will return the seized property in Russia to the former owners. The questions embeds a virtual ultimatum.

The French and Belgian delegates especially, adhering to the policy of their countries at Genca, are convinced that unless the Belshevik attitude on the restitution of property shows radical change no good can be achieved by pursuing the discussions with the Russians, who will again be asked whether they intend to restore the confacated property. If they admit the principle of restoration the details of a compromise can then be negotiated. Woman Gets Federal Post

Mrs. Spreckels to Study Working Conditions in Europe

ing Conditions in Europe
WASHINGTON, July 11.—Mrs. A. B.
Spreckels, of San Francisco, it was announced to-day, has been appointed a special representative of the Department of Labor and will investigate conditions among women in industry in Europe. The appointment, it was explained, is similar to that created recently for the late Lillian M. Russell Moore, of Pittsburgh, who investigated immigration conditions in Europe for the department.

Kaiman Fuchs, a middle aged cloth cutter, who said that he has been out of work for the last three months, was held Monday by Magistrate Oberwager for Special Sessions on a charge of failure to provide for his children, now in the Hebrew Orphan Asylum. In default of bail he was taken to the Tombs, and several hours after his imprisonment he sent for Warden Hanley and told him that his wife was locked up in her room at the Lewis Street address. He also explained that she was "not right in the head" and that he had kept her in the room since last December, when she had returned from a hospital.

When a visit was made to the tenement it was found that none of the tenants would go near the woman's room, and it remained for a woman reporter to coax her way through the door and prove that Mrs. Fuchs was harmless. Finally an aged woman was persuaded to enter and set as an interpreter, and it was found that Fuchs had provided enough food for one day before his arrest. Then, as 'tt was problematical how long her husband would remain in the Tombs, the interpreter agreed to see that Mrs. Fuchs was cared for until further aid could be obtained.

Fuchs, seen in the Tombs yesterday afterwoon, seemed deeply converted of the value of money or of leisure, he works too hard, and strangers agreed to see that Mrs. Fuchs was cared for until further aid could be obtained.
